ARMY SENT TO CAPITAL TO AWAIT U. S. ACTION

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 9.—UP—The government headed by President Gerardo Machado issued a decree tonight declaring a state of war throughout the republic in a stern move to check the violent general strike against the present administration.

Decree Broadcast
The decree was broadcast from the local government radio station. The announcement said the Machado regime felt the civil authorities lacked sufficient facilities to cope with the increasingly dangerous strike situation.

It bluntly warned the populace that the government therefore found it necessary for the military loyal to Machado, to assume authority.

Troops Replace Police
The broadcast also announced that troops would be returned to the streets of Havana tonight, taking over patrol of the capital from the police.

Constitutional guarantees of civil rights already had been suspended earlier in the week in Machado's defiant effort to check the uprising and retain his iron control over the island which he has held since 1924.

President Machado told the United Press he was giving his entire attention to clearing up the strike situation and restoring workers to their jobs. Soldiers patrolled the streets tonight to prevent violence, returning at 6 p. m.

One Killed in Riot
The unrest over the country continued, dispatches reaching Havana showed. At Manicaragua, in Santa Clara province, one was killed and two wounded by police and rural guards in dissolving riots there.

A strike of water works employees and garbage collectors at Camaguey was feared, menacing public health. At Cienfuegos, further rioting was reported. Sailors patrolled the airport there.

Sailors patrolled the docks at Santiago; the warship Viente de Mayo sending a landing party to aid the police. Sailors also patrolled the docks at Antilla, in Santiago province.

Name Committee
Senators and representatives in Congress in an informal joint session decided to name a committee of seven members each to study the political, economic and social problems in an effort to (Continued on page 8)

ROSEVILLE MAN ADMITS CRIME

NRA Warning Issued

JOHNSON TO PENALIZE BLUE EAGLE VIOLATORS

Washington, Aug. 9.—UP—General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, announced today he would withdraw the NRA blue eagle from retail stores which attempt to frustrate President Roosevelt's re-employment agreement by various devices to prevent employment of more workers.

Referring to reports of violation which he said came from all parts of the country, the administrator declared:

Can't Keep Insignia
"The insignia of the blue eagle must be withdrawn from those stores which either collectively or individually flagrantly attempt to frustrate the purpose of the presidential re-employment agreement. That agreement is a solemn covenant and its purpose is explicit."

Lists Tricks
He listed the various devices employed as "staggering employment hours enforcing rest periods, increasing the time for lunch without pay or either directly or indirectly conspiring to defeat the very purpose of the agreement by materially shortening the number of hours which the stores had customarily stayed open."

Issuance of this warning was but one act in a very busy day for Johnson. He started hearings on a code for the bituminous coal industry which he characterized as "the most difficult industry with which we have had to deal."

Progress Noted
Other developments included: 1.—Promulgation of a temporary code for the oil industry covering wages and hours. The disputed and complicated marketing and price fixing issues were left for settlement in a permanent code.

2.—Modifications of the blanket code bringing into the re-employment agreement hundreds of thousands of workers in barber and beauty shops, lithographers, retail coal dealers, retail jewelry dealers, saw and steel product plants. (Continued on Page 3)

Six-Foot Shark Pulls Boy From Boat at Beach

ALAMEDA, Aug. 9.—UP—A six-foot shark that dragged a youth from a boat and terrorized 23 children swimming at Washington Park Beach was shot by a policeman today when it ventured into the gentle surf.

David Buncum, 15, and a companion were rowing near the beach when they sighted the shark swimming toward their boat. Buncum plunged a gaff hook into the dorsal fin, catching it behind the dorsal fin.

The shark began lashing the water while Buncum held to the gaff handle. The rowboat rocked and the boy was pulled into the water. Amid Buncum's yells and the screams of children nearby, the shark pulled free and started swimming toward the shore.

Policeman R. A. Brooke, attracted by the noise, ran to the water's edge and shot the shark. Buncum, meanwhile, climbed back into the boat.

Scotch Society Enjoys Program

The Richmond St. Andrews society gained further fame for its excellent social events after last night's splendid entertainment presented in Memorial hall.

The crowds are increasing in size and last evening a full hall witnessed the capable artists, William W. Wallace, president, served as chairman and announcer of the event.

Jack Lee, Richmond photography enthusiast, presented a group of motion pictures which he took in national parks and also right in this city. This proved, of great interest to the audience.

Roy Handcock, talented local youth, gave a group of accordion solos. Mrs. Clyde Parker, vocalist, presented some excellent numbers with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Ruby Lohrer.

The gathering also enjoyed musical selections by Lloyd Phillips and Ralph Gundry.

During a short business session plans were furthered for the picnic in Alvarado park on August 26. This event will be attended by Scots from the entire bay region and will include various competitions in bag pipe playing, Highland dancing, etc. Gold medals will be awarded.

All present later adjourned to the banquet room for a delicious supper served by Robert Fulton and William Doull.

5 Service Men Meet Death on Coral Reef Near Honolulu Coast

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 9.—UP—Five navy aviators were killed today when a large plane crashed at sea and submerged a mile off Port Wheeler.

The craft turned up de down before striking the water, and only one of the six occupants escaped death.

The Victims
Lieut. T. G. Marshall, Lieut. C. P. Hill, pilot, C. C. Stewart, aviation machinist mate, V. C. Hovey, radio operator, Seaman S. B. Hill.

Machinists Mate M. A. Tuff, the only one to escape, said the tail surface material was torn off during flight, this causing the ship to nose over.

Instruction Flight
Lieut. Marshall, who was going given piloting instructions, was recovered from the submerged wreckage, but was pronounced dead when taken to a hospital at Fort Wheeler.

Three Leave Widows
Hill was a member of the 1927 class at Annapolis. He is survived by his widow, in Honolulu.

Marshall was married. His mother Mrs. Mary W. Marshall, lives at Long Beach, Calif.

Stewart entered the Navy at Dallas, Tex., his widow is in Honolulu. Hovey's home was at Kiheman, Kan., he leaves a widow in Honolulu.

Hill is survived by his mother, Mrs. Louise May Kern, Athens, Ohio.

The airplane tender Avocet located the plane under fifty feet of water, and began grappling for it.

Gets $500 For Auto Injuries

MARTINEZ, August 9.—Damages $500 were last evening awarded to Bernice Boden for injuries which she allegedly sustained in an automobile crash involving Otto R. and A. W. Poulson of Richmond.

The jury which received the case deliberated four and one-half hours in the court of Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie.

The accident occurred on October 14, 1932, when a car driven by C. W. Boden, the girl's father, collided with a machine operated by the defendants in El Cerrito.

Miss Boden was represented by Robert Collins of Richmond.

Tragedy Marks Return of the Italian Planes

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 9.—UP—Tragedy marked the return of the Italian air fleet, nearing the end of the most remarkable mass airplane flights in the history of aviation.

One man was killed and three injured when one of the 24 giant seaplanes cracked up at the start, outside the harbor, at Ponta Del Gada, on the island of San Miguel, in the Azores; the other 23 planes made the last phase of the daring transatlantic formation cruise without incident and the fliers, given a roaring welcome, slept in Lisbon tonight, saddened by the accident.

Young Pilot
The man killed was Lieutenant C. Squella, youthful reserve pilot on the seaplane L'Italo, piloted by Captain Randieri. The plane was in the squadron of three commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Cesare Lanza. Captain Randieri, Sergeant Mechanic Cremaschi and Sergeant Boveri. The other men in the plane, were slightly bruised.

General Balbo, air minister in command of the aerial armada, radioed Premier Mussolini that the accident was caused by "an error in maneuvering."

He and the other 11 planes proceeded to Lisbon, arriving at 10:40 a. m. EDT. They were joined by the three squadrons led by General Aldo Pellegrini, second in command on the mass flight, who had remained at Ponta in the Azores last night.

The purpose of the new arrangement, it was said by Parr, is to make an aggressive campaign simultaneously to develop Richmond's industrial possibilities and to secure the largest amount of existing tonnage for the local harbor. The new program will be effective September 1, according to Parr, who (Continued on Page 3)

School Trustees to Hold Session

A. A. Hughes, president of the Richmond high school board of trustees, has announced a special meeting to be held Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

The session will be in the Washington school auditorium and will enable West Side parents to express their wishes in regard to student transportation.

The board is willing to cooperate with the parents in this matter and will adopt the bus or the street car ticket system as the district desires.

All parents are invited to be present.

PEAR SHIPMENT

BRENTWOOD, Aug. 9.—Destined for export to England, the initial shipment of Diablo Valley pears had been dispatched to New York today.

Lone Fireman Saves Trolley At El Cerrito

Joseph DeBartolo, of the El Cerrito fire department today, promptly rescued the honor of having extinguished a street car fire all by himself.

He happened on the blaze which occurred at the Alameda-Contra Costa line while shopping. Much smoke was rising from the street car and the passengers were trying to climb out the windows.

Joe hurried over with his extinguisher and put out the conflagration which started, it is thought, from a short circuit in the controller box.

He was assisted, he states, by a gentleman named Oley Olsen who brought two buckets of water to the scene.

"And I was careful," Joe said last night, "to see that the trolley was disconnected before I dumped on any water, I don't like shocks."

Red Cross Aids Local Jobless; Renders Report

More than 200 persons have been put to work in Richmond during the last month, according to the report made last evening by directors of the local Red Cross chapter.

The board members of the chapter attribute this optimistic state of affairs entirely to the National Recovery Act which has so recently come into country-wide effect.

"The NRA has taken hold in Richmond," they report, "and has brought about the biggest improvement in several years."

The directors held their regular meeting last evening with John Miller, president. Miller who has recently made a trip east told some of his observations there.

He said that nearly 100 percent employment existed as far west as Chicago and that conditions seemed very favorable.

Accident Victim Reported Better

Dominic Uccello, 40, of 24 Washington avenue, is recovering today from lacerations which he sustained in a recent automobile accident in San Pablo.

He was a passenger in a car driven by George Miller of Antioch when it collided with a machine piloted by William J. Madden of San Francisco.

MINISTER ILL

Rev. Primus Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, is confined to his home with illness.

And Let This Be a Lesson to Fat and Sleepy-Headed People

In the neighborhood of Twenty-first street and Macdonald avenue two dogs reside.

One is Pat, the almost city-reared giant bulldog. He is fat, lazy and good natured.

Brownie is smaller, leaner and until now hasn't been so popular in the district.

"But it's the cream of things for Brownie from now on," says Jack Madden, restaurant owner.

The Maddens who reside on Twenty-second street just off Nevin avenue operate a small cafe at 227 Macdonald avenue. Myriads of pups gather every day at his back door for the scraps that might be forthcoming.

Pat has hitherto been the white-haired boy of the crowd. Brownie has been more obscure and has not fared nearly so well at meal-times.

KILLER MAY BE LINKED WITH HONOR CASE IN S. F.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 9.—UP—A young woman who was killed at Roseville during a quarrel with Roy Mann, 24, was identified late today as Patsy Burns, aged about 34, whose police said had "a shady reputation and a criminal record."

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 9.—UP

—First degree murder charges were prepared late today for filing against Roy Mann, 24, of Roseville, who assertedly killed a pretty young woman because she repulsed his amorous advances.

Mann coolly admitted shooting the girl, identified only as "Pat" and described as "decidedly pretty," after picking her up in Roseville and driving to a deserted house at the outskirts of town.

The girl resisted his advances and their argument, punctuated by considerable drinking, became intense.

Swore at Him
"She used language no woman should use," Mann said. "She was very abusive. I just went haywire, pulled out a .45 revolver and shot her in the head."

They became hysterical, dragged her body into the house and drove to Sacramento.

His arrest resulted from the suspicion and foresightedness of a nearby resident, W. H. Bachman, who stropped past Mann's parked car and made a notation of the number.

Find the Body
Late yesterday, Bachman visited the deserted house and found the girl's body. Mann was arrested eight hours later.

The killing occurred Sunday. Authorities said the girl was between 22 and 24 years old. They believed she lived in Sacramento, Lodi or Roseville, but their inquiries have failed to disclose trace of a missing girl.

Mann, once an inmate of the Preston School of Industry, formerly was employed by the state highway department at Roseville.

Robbery Suspected
Police believe that Mann robbed the woman of several $5 bills which a woman witness said the victim had carried in her shoes.

The dead woman's shoes were found hidden beneath the porch of the ranch house.

Pythian Lodge to Go Visiting

Arrangements for two visits to Martinez lodge, Knights of Pythias were made last evening at the regular session of Richmond lodge.

On August 16 the local lodge will confer the esquire rank at the county seat lodge. On September 5 they will go to witness the knight's rank as conferred by the team from the Pythian home, Valley of the Moon.

The district convention for August has been postponed and the date and place for the September meeting will be announced later.

Vice-Chancellor John Stachelsch conducted last evening's meeting in the absence of T. T. Kline.

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

The public seems to have responded to yesterday morning's story about the unclaimed purses at the Richmond police department.

Calls are coming in from all over the bay region asking about purses which disappeared from local dance halls.

.....
I didn't know our Richmond amusements attracted such wide spread attention.

There probably won't be enough purses to go around.

.....
A casual glance over current movie magazines reveals that Mae West is practically dominating Hollywood.

.....
There's hardly a paragraph in any of them that doesn't mention her or her own adjective, "curvaceous."

.....
It's queer to have her join the ranks of the much-white-washed stars when she has occupied space in newspapers and patrol wagons for years as a New York actress.

.....
But she can certainly teach the average movie star a million things about the business.

AFTER SUN BEAU'S RECORD

By FEG BURRAY

Speaking Of Sports

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—Up Jesse Owens, Cleveland, O., negro, who tied the world record of 200 ft. for the 100-yard dash while still in high school, goes to for pie and steak in a big way.

His thousands per them was distributed during a recent visit to Indianapolis.

"How do you keep fit?" asked a newspaper reporter.

"Well, first of all I eat what I want," replied the young athlete.

Doesn't Like Chicken

"I'm nuts about pie, and a juicy steak comes in handy now and then," he said.

"I'll be most people of my race, I don't care so much for chicken and I wouldn't go out of my way for a piece of watermelon, but pie and steak, that's different."

Owens denied reports that he has decided definitely to enter Ohio State University this fall.

When he stopped here, he was fresh from a visit to Indiana University as a guest of Jesse Babb, negro football and track star at the Hoosier school.

His denial that he would enter Ohio State and the fact that he visited Bloomington started rumors that he had been persuaded by Coach E. C. Hayes to enter Indiana University. During the past few years, Hayes has gained a reputation as a day-doper of track champions.

Owens was born in Danville, Ala., in 1912, according to his mother. His father says it was 1912, but the mother's opinion is generally accepted.

Raced in Grade Schools

The family moved to Cleveland in 1921. Owens entered Balton grade school and during his years there outdistanced all rivals in youthful foot races.

When he entered Fairmount Junior high his school career as a track coach at the school saw Owens race once and remarked:

"There's a fellow who has the makings of a star. Some day he'll be heard from."

Riley prediction was fulfilled during the national interscholastic meet at Chicago last June, when Owens tied the accepted world's record set by Frank Wykoff and equaled in the 1933 intercollegiate meet by Ralph Metcalf, Marquette University negro.

McLarnin Wants Fight In L. A.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—If Jimmy McLarnin, new welterweight champion, expressed a preference for a Labor Day fight in Los Angeles when he reached here today on his homeward trip.

Young Corbett, from whom McLarnin took the title in Los Angeles, Jack Hood, and Andy Callaghan of Boston were mentioned as seeking fights with the champion Hood is British titleholder in the same division.

On arrival here McLarnin announced a change in his plans. He will stay here several weeks "on a business proposition" instead of continuing to Vancouver.

R. C. his home it was announced. He said he wanted to give Young Corbett the first chance at the crown and wanted Los Angeles fans to see him fight again as he won the title there.

Baseball Men Meet Tonight

A special meeting of the Richmond Baseball Managers' association will be held tonight at the city hall.

The session will be in charge of "Rube" Cunningham, president. All players and managers are urged to attend. The time is 8 o'clock.

PRODUCERS BEAT CUBS

The Richmond Produce club took the measure of the Lamprock Cubs, 9 to 7, last night on the first street diamond in what was heralded as a "city championship" game.

Both teams used a lot of pitchers and the score was tied up, 7 to 7, for two innings, adding a few jobs of excitement to the fray for the benefit of the big crowd.

The winners used three chuckers, including "Jiggs" Wright, and the Cubs called on two mounds-men before the game was over.

There were no particularly spectacular plays, but everybody went home feeling well satisfied that they had seen a good game of ball.

Notre Dame Style Change Calls For Heavier Linesmen

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Robert Knute Rockne, who has been coaching at Notre Dame, is now coming in.

They note in the future and demonstrations of these former disciples of Knute Rockne, a departure from the Notre Dame method of attack that ranges from mild to radical.

All very interesting, but more interesting, it seems, is the fact that Notre Dame has chosen to draw in a way from the style of play applied by Rockne and his assistants.

This was made clear last year, it was marked with more emphasis in spring practice and will be too plain this coming fall to escape attention.

As a matter of fact the writer can testify that Rockne not long before his death was he himself a banker for heavy, fast guards, and he changed view concerning backfield left was noted the last year he coached, in his "Cariboo-Bull" Schwartz combination.

The truth is that at Notre Dame as elsewhere the theory that a good big man will beat a good little man is being recognized and the very latest trend in football has been toward very large, fast forwards, with heavy fast backs to complete a team that generates terrific power and moves as a whole with great speed.

In keeping with this change Knute Rockne at Notre Dame has supplanted the small active guards of the Rockne era with the heavy forward type of forward, who, though fast, are probably less mobile than the guards of a former day at Notre Dame.

Of course, backs with a great range, with speed and agility, who weigh over 220 pounds, were a dream of Rockne—a dream that

AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE IS TOSS UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—UT—The American League pennant race to-night was just as much a toss-up as the leading Washington Senators and runner-up New York Yankees battled through eight games of two so-called "crucial" games.

Washington ended the second year series at Yankee stadium today with a 4 to 1 victory over the world champions, giving the Senators an even break in this series, the same as the Yankees obtained by winning two games in the first series at Washington.

Three Over Yanks

Today's victory extended the Senators' league lead to three full games over the Yanks, the same as they enjoyed before the last series opened. Washington now has won 11 of its 18 meetings this season with New York.

In the only other game played in the American circuit, Boston downed the Philadelphia Athletics 8 to 4, after young Dick Oliver's wildness on the mound enabled the Red Sox to click off six runs in the first.

Brown Hits Three

Pitcher Lloyd Brown helped win his own game by driving in two Sox runs with three hits in four tries, including a homer in the fourth. Manager Marty McManus drove in three runs with two hits.

In the National League, the Boston Braves took sole possession of fourth place by a 2 to 2 victory over the Phillies, dropping Frankie Fisk's St. Louis Cardinals from a fourth place tie to fifth position when the Cards bowed to the Chicago Cubs 10 to 6.

Ben Cantwell helped win his 15th game of the season for Boston when he worked a squeeze play in the fifth for the winning run. He bunted safely, permitting Spohrer to score from third.

Pinkey Whitney, formerly with the Phillies accounted for the first two runs in the second with his left homer of the season with his Randy Moore on base.

Grimes Beaten

The Chicago Cubs collected 15 hits off Grimes, Johnson and Carleton, sending the veteran spitball hurler, Grimes, to the showers in the first when they scored five runs. Babe Herman and Jurgens made home runs for the Cubs. They were the only games played.

The dogs start in the 3-16 box, circle the track twice and finish under full steam. Be sure to attend.

Best Race Of Year Set For El Cerrito

Tomorrow's the night—the night of nights—the night of the one-of-a-kind seven-sixteenths mile greyhound match race at El Cerrito Kennel club track.

Since announcement of this feature and the subsequent naming of the eight entrants, greyhound fans of the northern section of California have been in a frenzy to witness this exciting and unusual race.

It's the treat of the season. Warranted the greatest race yet conceived by the officials at El Cerrito track.

The best and most thrilling race of all!

Those and other plaudits are showered on tomorrow night's colossal attraction.

While the world's record remains at 45 2-5 seconds, established from a running start by Midnight Joe at Miami, the time 47 2-5 set by Pete Craig in winning from Flying Express, Spring Beauty, Princess Victorian and Bessie's Best November 26, 1932, is the only time that El Cerrito has attempted this unusual distance race.

All entrants tomorrow will take off from a standing start, as has been the custom at this popular track and all other prominent American tracks.

Students of the entries for the seven-sixteenths race, in which the greyhounds circle the track two times, look on Pete Mosconi's Tip Dragon to be one of the favorites. This is accounted for by Tip Dragon's good performances in early five-sixteenths races lately. Why Mac, trained by E. McTighe, is a strong finished and also may be looked on to be up around there at the finish wire.

For that matter, all the entrants start from scratch because no one, owner or trainer or grandstand enthusiast, knows exactly how the dogs will react under this long grind. M. Ringwald's Wild Dolan may be a big surprise, and Ivory Top, trained by L. M. Smith, is always dangerous.

T. K. Powell's Cleo Ester, if able to meet the test, will give a courageous effort, while Black Rover and Sam Alarce are always worth figuring.

Party Held For Preacher and Wife By Methodists

Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Case of the Wesley Methodist church, were delightfully honored last evening by over 130 members of their congregation.

The gathering took place at the church, which had been charmingly decorated. The banquet tables were beautiful with a profusion of summer blossoms in pastel shades. The nut cups, lavender and yellow, were adorned with sweet peas and the favors were tiny Bibles, each containing a verse of scriptures.

Fruit salad, wafers, homemade cake, coffee and tea were served the men of the group pouring the beverages.

The program as arranged by Mrs. Kell Jenkins included: Vocal duet by Mrs. Roland Jenkins and Mrs. Wesley Stribley; two recitations by Miss Jane Jenkins and a skit by five members of the Tuxis League. Mrs. C. R. Faurot made the presentation of a handsome blanket to the honored couple. Mrs. Case responded, thanking all present for this very useful gift and Rev. Case also gave a few words of thanks.

NIRA PROGRAM LUNCHEON SET FOR WEDNESDAY

The preliminary meeting to organize the forces of Richmond in favor of the smooth operation of the N. R. A. program will be held at a luncheon next Wednesday noon at Hotel Carquinez, according to decision reached at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

P. M. Sanford, president, said the charts and other detailed material in connection with campaign organizations of this kind have now been received from the Federal authorities in Washington, and that Richmond has been asked to set in operation on the same kind of a plan as will be operative in other communities throughout the United States.

"We will not be expected to have anything to do with the actual administration of the Recovery Act," he said. "This movement is along the lines of the drives and Liberty Loan appeals during the war, and is designed to stimulate patriotism and good feeling in order that the N. R. A. program may be widely accepted and proceed with all speed to success."

Sanford said thirty of forty representatives from the organizations in Richmond will gather at next Wednesday's meeting under the banner of the Chamber to discuss details of an organization which shall reflect a city-wide spirit in Richmond.

Leaders will probably be selected at that meeting and general plans arrived at, after which there will be a period of organization work, to be followed by a mass meeting at which the movement will be officially launched. The campaign involves publicity, short talks by a corps of picked speakers, and other activities in support of N. R. A.

Profiteering On State Sales Tax Is Investigated

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—UP—Complaints of profiteering resulting from the 2½ percent state retail sales tax caused Prof. Roger Traynor, chief of the sales tax division, to seek ways and means of curbing the tax racket today.

Some merchants, it was charged, are reaping profits by overtaxing articles, or taxing goods which are exempt and pocketing the difference.

Traynor asked Attorney General U. S. Webb to suggest some legal ammunition to be used in squelching the racketeers.

Meanwhile, the state was divided into 13 districts for the purpose of administering the sales tax. Headquarters for the districts are in Sacramento, Redding, Chico, Oakland, San Francisco, Stockton, Fresno, Los Angeles, San Diego, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, San Jose and Eureka.

He was given emergency treatment and returned to his home.

ASSEMBLYMEN GET MILEAGE AGAINST LAW

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 9.—UP—State assemblymen collected mileage for attending the mid-summer legislative session despite constitutional provisions prohibiting such payments, the United Press learned tonight.

In closing hours of the session, the assembly unanimously approved an appropriation of $5,214.19. It was earmarked to pay officers, clerks, and employees of the assembly, and to finance preparing bills and filing them with the secretary of state.

The appropriation was made payable to Fred J. Desch, assistant chief clerk of the assembly.

Arthur Ohmhus, chief clerk, and Desch tonight refused to comment in any way on the statement of Bruce Stannard, San Diego, that mileage checks were paid each assemblyman from the fund.

The United Press was told by a reliable source, however, that 90 percent of the assemblymen voted for the appropriation with the knowledge that it would be used to pay the forbidden mileage.

Rumors that the senate followed a similar procedure were heard. Senator W. P. Rich, of Marysville, told the United Press that he had no knowledge of such a practice in the senate.

When Desch's itemized account of disbursement of the $5,214.19 appropriation is submitted to State controller Ray L. Riley, it will be carefully scrutinized, Riley said. If it shows the money was spent for mileage, Riley will refuse to accept it.

Finance Director Roland Vandegrift had only one comment: "And they went away leaving the state with a $40,000,000 deficit."

Your Good Health

By CLAUD N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Discussing Keratoses and the Possibility of Skin Cancer

MY ATTENTION has been attracted by a very recent article from the pen of a fellow columnist for whom I have much respect and admiration. In this article the theme under discussion is the possibility of skin cancer.

No one would be less likely to wish to cause undue alarm than this same physician-author and teacher.

Thank you for the professional for me to say that my own long experience creates in my mind considerable concern when I read this paragraph.

SPEAKING of certain skin spots, which he calls "keratoses," this columnist says: "Their importance is due to the fact that some of them are actually the earliest stage of cancer and that their removal prevents the development of cancer in that spot. Senile keratoses, if left alone, in a large percentage of cases, become cancerous." Later in the article, the writer continues by stating that the only true diagnosis is obtained by "cutting a small piece of the skin and putting it under the microscope." I predict that such a statement coming from so reliable an authority will augment for a time, at least, the business of the laboratory and the surgeon.

HUMAN nature is always susceptible to fear, and particularly among older people less occupied by normal activities, there is considerable tendency to grow morbid upon any possibility of threatened affliction. I have no figures at hand to show what percentage of senile keratoses or skin patches do not become cancerous, nor can I minimize the seriously high rating now held by cancer in our mortality records. I wish only to consider how far it is wise to go in laying down statements of medical authority that are likely to create alarm.

IT IS NOT the custom of the ethical physician to seek to withhold from a patient any reasonable knowledge of his condition, should that condition be determined after consideration of the case. Many things must be taken into the study of any case, especially serious ones. Some types of nervous systems are so affected by the mere prospect of serious illness or even the apprehension of possible suffering in sicknesses that can be cured, that only those in attendance can predict how far it is safe to go in revealing the likely developments. These facts, in themselves, can do much to counteract any means used toward recovery, and in any case retard the good results hoped for.

THE almost miraculous accomplishments of modern surgery are beyond dispute, but the true surgeon uses his knife only where and when required. We have to consider that practically no person past middle age has an unblemished skin and that patches of roughness and discoloration, all sorts of warts and moles and skin variations are to be noted as the years accumulate. It is difficult to make a blanket statement in regard to these conditions and any such statement must be greatly qualified. There should be vigilance, to be sure, but symptoms of malignant growth there should also be contributing before any such radical treatment as surgery is used on these countless manifestations of changing skin formation.

THE period of old age is already handicapped with inhibitions and limitations. None of us would willingly add a single bugbear to existence at any stage. The major portion of living is in its anticipations, and we must make these as full of satisfaction as we may.

A WOMAN CAN LEARN SECRET OF LOVELINESS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

MANY women are born with an charm (or poise or wisdom), but not all of them know how to make the most of it. If you are born with it, perhaps you really need to have someone tell you how to use it, if you are not, then drop everything you are doing and learn it.

Learn to look for the brighter, finer things. So many of you go along thinking that beauty is not for you—that it is only a mythical pot of gold at the end of the rainbow—and then one day a miracle takes place. You realize that you might have been beautiful all the time if you had only known how to believe in something. And you can be lovelier now—even though you are no longer young.

Great medical men have discovered that glands have a lot to do with your growing old and that if you can keep these glands young and bounding with life you can stay young a long time. You can do much to keep these glands healthy by taking care of your general health. Relax even though you are a busy person. Drink a lot of water, learn to be calm and you will give your glands a chance to take care of themselves and of you.

When you have learned to control your health and nerves, turn to cosmetics. Select them for their gentle effectiveness. Skin is young when it is soft and moist; it is old when it is stiff and harsh. Use cleansing creams that turn to liquid almost as soon as they touch your skin and use a bland soap and water. And rinse and rinse, first with warm water and then let the water run colder and colder until it is icy.

Do the same thing in the morning, first rinse your skin with tepid water then gradually lower the temperature. Violent measures are bad for skins that are no longer young and delicate and glowing. After cleansing use a gentle tonic or neutralizer that will stimulate your skin slightly and make sure that all cream and dirt are gone. You will need a nourishing cream, too, to keep your skin fresh and soft. There are many creams that are easy to use and delightfully efficient. When you find the one that is best for you stick to it.

There are other little touches that help you find beauty. Search for them. Try letting your little dab of cheek rouge soften before you blend it into your skin and you will have a natural looking cheek coloring. Dip your wash cloth into cold, cold, water and smooth it over your flabby neck or double chin to improve the appearance. And if you use nail polish be sure that its color harmonizes softly with your make-up and with your costumes. Care for your health so unceasingly that your skin is clear and luminous—you can, you know.

ANSWER TO QUERY

ANSWER: I think your skin is terrible and I cannot locate the cause. My health is good, my diet right and I get sufficient sleep. I cleanse my skin carefully with cream and soap and water twice daily and yet it looks blotchy and I have blackheads and pimples occasionally. I wonder if they might be caused from my foundation cream and rouge? I work and use a lot of make-up most of the time. I have noticed that my skin is better when I have omitted the make-up for a day.—D. S.

ANSWER: I think your skin has been thwarted by too much attention. It would be wise for you to omit your daytime make-up entirely for a while and see what happens. Rinse your skin with tepid water in the morning and pat it with a light skin tonic or a hand lotion and when this is dry, dust on just the tiniest bit of powder. If you feel that your face is too unadorned, use a bit of lipstick and give your eyes emphasis with a discreet touch of mascara. Use your rouge and powder only when you make up for special occasions and you will be surprised at how much better your skin looks after its rest from pore-clogging powder bases and too much make-up.

Pickles lend a decorative but essentially sophisticated flair to moulded salads and, equally as important, they supply the enticing flavors and eye-appeal necessary to overcome the prejudice of menfolk against dinner, luncheon or party dishes that resemble confections in the masculine idea.

SMALL FAMILY SPECIAL DISHES

By JUDITH WILSON

THERE are so many things that I cannot serve with only two in the family—and the thought of left-overs prevents me from trying out new recipes. What can I do? asks one new bride. Cooking for two does bring its problems, but they are really not problems at all when you actually face them. I gave you a few suggestions yesterday on the advantages and savings of making more than will be required for one meal occasionally.

All else failing, there are always creamed dishes that can fall back upon for using up left-overs, and they are really delicious if you are careful to season the sauce or gravy well and extend the food if necessary with fresh or canned meats or vegetables. Finish the combination off with crisp bread crumbs or grated cheese and you will have an attractive and appetizing main dish. Bake the savory combination in individual ramekins to add eye-appeal.

Breakfast Food

When you prepare fresh or dried fruit for breakfast, prepare enough for dessert for dinner or luncheon. Stewed fruits make attractive whips and compotes while baked fruits like apples or pears can be stuffed with chopped nuts and raisins, chilled, dotted with whipped cream and served as a dessert de luxe. Blueberries or similar fruits may be used for breakfast and then converted into a cake or deep dish pie for supper. In the small family, as in the large, economy begins with the selections of the meat for the main course. While more expensive meats are allowable for the small family, there is no excuse for wasteful buying or cooking. If you like roast beef, do not buy a roast—the juiciest cuts are bound to be too large—buy a thick steak, lay thin pieces of suet on it, tie and roast in a very hot oven for a short time. If even this is too large, use only the choicest part for roasting and chop the rest for hamburger, stuffed peppers or meat loaf.

Delicious Roasts

For lamb, veal and pork roasts buy loin or rib chops—as many as needed. Have the bones separated at the joints, but do not cut all the way through. Roast in a very hot oven.

Baked Ham

For baked ham, buy a thick slice of ham, sear it quickly on both sides, rub both sides with brown sugar, mustard and a small amount of flour. Stick cloves here and there, add a little water and bake, covered, in a

Stuffed Roasts

For a stuffed roast meat, instead of buying a shoulder or leg cut, buy a slice of the meat, spread it with a rather moist stuffing and roll with the stuffing inside. Brown first, then bake in a moderate oven. On special occasions, small broiling chickens, and even game birds, are nice for the family of two.

Home-Making

By ALINE STERN

White linen table cloths should always be washed in very hot water. The same rule applies to colored table cloths of which it is known that the colors are fast. When in doubt as to color fastness, do not take a chance.

If white linens and white cottons are soaked before washing, they do not have to be rubbed as hard. The best result is obtained when the soaking period is short, not longer than fifteen minutes. According to correct laundry methods discovered by scientific experiments at the University of Nebraska, clothes allowed to soak for a long time, even night for example, absorb a good deal of their original soil from the water, making rough treatment necessary later in order to get them clean.

Use buttered crumbs for esoploved and baked dishes. One tablespoon of melted butter to a quarter cup of crumbs will do the trick nicely. Toss together gently.

You and Your Child

CHILDREN NEED HOME FREEDOM

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

BETTY is a six-year-old who would remain in the house a minute, if she can help it. She finishes her breakfast or lunch and is off to play with other children out-of-doors. Until recently, her mother regarded this as a normal behavior. Children must play, she reasoned. It is their life work. Besides, Betty is at an age where friends are a normal part of her life.

One day a neighbor's little girl reported that Betty had broken her mama's hand mirror. Betty, it developed, had helped herself to it without permission. Betty, it further was discovered, often visited in other people's houses when she was believed by her mother to be playing in the street. Above and beyond the usual come-guest-where-she-has-visited before.

Question of Obedience Betty's mother says that it isn't logical for a child who does not dare to take liberties in her own home to take them in other homes. But I find it reasonable to believe otherwise. Children who are restricted in their own homes are the very ones I have found, who run wild in other people's homes.

If Betty were comfortable in her own home, she would want to spend a little more time in it, and she would ask other children over to play.

The urge for freedom is very strong in children. It can be checked temporarily but it can't be stopped altogether. The strict disciplinary labors under the misapprehension that absolute obedience can be taught. This is wrong. It can only be enforced.

Freedom as Need

Parental example is an important factor in child education, but it is also true that you cannot teach a child to behave, or anything, unless he wants to. If we want a child to enjoy being at home, we must make it a pleasant place to be. He needs freedom for this, the right to go here, there, and the right to examine and touch things. He must satisfy his curiosity before he can feel at ease. No child would go through dressing table drawers in a strange house unless to do so were a suppressed desire.

Betty may be a perfectly behaved child in her own home. I do not doubt that she is. But it is unlikely that she is well behaved from choice. Rather she obeys blindly, a habit founded on fear of consequence.

Margot Asquith, Witty Englishwoman... Count Branicki Sells a Rug

FEW Englishwomen of the present century have enjoyed so full a life as Margot Asquith, the witty Countess of Oxford, and widow of Britain's first wartime Prime Minister.

As a young girl, Margot Tennant was a favorite of the great statesmen and statesmen. Gladstone wrote a poem to her. The late J. P. Morgan enjoyed her friendship and was twitted about his oversized nose. Everywhere she went she shocked people, but notwithstanding, managed to win their devotion.

Even as the sixth daughter in a family of unusually precocious girls, Margot always stood out as the most terrible. Her father was Sir Charles Tennant, a Scotch baronet, who did not believe in allowing Victorian manners to restrict the personality of his children.

When Sir Charles brought his daughter to London they surprised society by their dress, vivacity and wit. Sir Charles was a big house in the West End near Hyde Park. One day Margot, on her horse, was waiting at the front curb for her father to go riding with her.

Sir Charles was delayed because he found it difficult to adjust his cravat. The impatient Margot rode her horse up the front steps of the mansion and into the hall and the horse, becoming frightened, reared to the magnificent crystal chandelier.

The marriage of Margot to Herbert Asquith was a surprise to society. Their temperaments were as unlike as day and night. She was as glib and vital as he was detached, and as impassioned as he was modest and emotional. Asquith did not change her, or did he want to. Her frankness sometimes made him blush, but she became one of the most successful hostesses official British society had ever known.

It was when Asquith was Prime Minister that she became involved in her most famous incident. She invited Paul Poincaré to bring his manuscript from Paris and give a fashion show at No. 10 Downing Street, the Prime Minister's home, usually reserved for the most dignified meetings, both social and political. As a result, the Prime Minister was questioned in Parliament and called to order by his party. His wife was ostracized by the English tradesmen for her indiscretion. She had to order dresses worth hundreds of pounds in London with other proof of her fidelity to them. However, she did one thing to the official residence of Britain's prime ministers which will undoubtedly make her name live forever. She had modern bathrooms installed.

USUALLY wealthy Americans go to Europe or send their agents abroad to pick up bargains in historic and otherwise valuable objects of art. But when a member of European royalty shows the business acumen usually attributed to Americans, it is something to record.

Count Henryk Branicki, of the Warsaw Branickis, a family famed in Polish history, decided some years ago to rescue Castle Wawel, the ancient seat of his family on the outskirts of Warsaw. The building was in an unkempt and disreputable state. With a great deal of enthusiasm he went about the task of renovating the mud castle and soon found himself without funds.

Needing money very badly, the Count set afloat the rumor that an unnamed but unquestionably efficient American had offered him $2,000,000 for the famous Branicki rug.

Now a rumor of this sort would have been pointless, were it not that the rug had, for Polish and some very historic associations. Generations ago it had been the gift of the great Polish king, John Sobieski, to one of Count Branicki's ancestors.

In time the rumor penetrated the innermost recesses of the ordinarily inaccessible Ministry of Finance, which the Count had hoped would be its ultimate destination. Officials of this department could not possibly think of letting the rug fall into the profane hands of an alien. They called Branicki before them and proceeded to lecture him about loyalty to the Polish fatherland. He replied that patriotism was all very well in its way, but that when a man needed money there were no two ways about it.

Choosing the lesser of what looked like two evils, the authorities decided to purchase the rug on behalf of the government. They paid Branicki the equivalent of $2,000,000 and sent the rug to the national museum. Promptly forsook Warsaw and went to the Riviera to live. Some days later he was informed that experts had found the rug was not the famous Branicki rug and that it was quite impossible for him to have sold it since the records showed a great-grandfather had sold this years ago, when in need of money like the present count.

UPHOLD YOUR RIGHTS TO WIN PLACE IN SUN

By MARIAN MAYES MARTIN

THE doormat variety of human still exists. No amount of so-called modernism seems to be able to offset that peculiar and lowly quality in a person who seems to feel that this object in life is to be a sort of human S. R. Walters' coat. And more get stepped on the better they seem to like the person who does it.

WOMEN do not seem to be curious victims to this curious form of sacrifice than men. Think of the men we have all met whose family walk all over them, even kick them around beside. Honor and respect is due a man who shoulders his share of the family burden. But the man who assumes it all is not likely to get any help or sympathy from the outside world. He is put down as an easy mark. Easy marks line up with fat men in the opinion of the world at large. Nobody loves an easy mark, least of all the very person who profits most by this abject quality.

JUST as children have no respect for those who allow them to put on their tantrums, and servants have no respect for mistresses who let them get away with murder, as they might phrase it, so men and women have no use for those who do not stand up for the slightest command—or without it. One cannot help feeling scornful of any one who so debases himself. The very best such a one ever may hope to get is pity.

THE world is filled with selfish wives with self-sacrificing husbands. It is also pretty well cluttered up with selfish husbands who wave a family with fear at their frown. One cannot help wondering what happens when like weds like. They never seem to. The weak have an unconscious tendency to cling to the strongest to cling to, and the selfish, of either sex, invariably tread, sooner or later, on a doormat with "welcome" written all over it.

ITS just as well to throttle an impulse to lie down, so that those we love may walk all over us. Probably there is a little of the Nathan Hale in all of us, were we to substitute wife, or husband or children for country. But does that give either a wife, or husband or child, the slightest right to take advantage of this state of mind? I don't think so.

IN MARRIAGE, each has his share of the load to carry. The man, assuming that he is the provider for a large family, has about all he can do to juggle along carrying that responsibility without reaching out to take some of the burden off his wife's shoulders, or to help children sufficiently grown kindness a responsibility, with his.

IT'S grossly unfair to take advantage of a person whose heart is bigger than his physical strength. "I didn't think," "I never realized that I was doing it," isn't any alibi at all. A self-sacrificing person who is not inclined to rebel any more than a doormat with or without "welcome" on it, is liable to cry out, "Ouch, you're hurting me," when someone wipes their feet on it. "But that's what a doormat is for," they say, "but never wipe your bum on it, or with nor kid, nor outsider was ever intended to be trampled on."

AREN'T we taking a great deal for granted when we attempt it? It is the first thing that one goes rough shod over that is the crucial test of further relations. Then it is that we either become a doormat in embryo or speak our piece, or strike an attitude or whatever it is that seems best suited to the occasion.

IT is a mistaken idea, that by asserting oneself, one goes to lose the affection of the one who is maneuvering to put their foot on one's neck. Their affection will, in all probability, be strengthened by the respect that is naturally shown.

DO YOUR share, even a little bit more, if it pleases you to do it, but strangle any urge you may feel to accept the entire load. It's a mistaken kindness, and is one of the causes of filling the world with widows, widowers and orphans.

To Preserve Oilcloth

To prevent your oilcloth from cracking and sticking when you roll it up, place tissue paper next to the colored side.

For special occasions or when you want to look particularly attractive, this gown of white organdy is suggested. Note the inserted bands of self-pleating on the skirt and a quaint yoke. Two little... Jeta bows stress the frock's youthfulness.

AIRPORT AT MARTINEZ IS INSPECTED

MARTINEZ, Aug. 9.—Established when the Department of Commerce abandoned the Concord Intercontinental airport as an emergency measure, the Martinez waterfront airport today had passed inspection as an emergency landing field.

E. F. Mouton, of Oakland, chief inspector of the Department of Commerce, aviation division, gave his endorsement to the field.

The government official flew here from Oakland and was greeted by a civic delegation consisting of Mayor E. Clary, Secretary George L. Pascoe of the Martinez chamber of commerce and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Joseph, Contra Costa county's "flying sleuth."

"The field is very good for emergency purposes and it will be placed on the next Department of Commerce airways map as an emergency field," Mouton said.

He asked City Engineer Ben H. Green to prepare a sketch of the airport to be forwarded to Washington, D. C.

A hangar is being erected on the field to house Deputy Sheriff Joseph's plane, formerly stored at Concord.

Electric poles at the west end of the runway will be lowered 15 feet, and at suggestion of the flying officer, they will be painted black and white to make them more discernible.

An electric tower at the east end of the field will not prove a hindrance, it was stated, but in event the field is used for night flying a light must be installed.

Coeds and Nurses, Clad Only In Blushes, Join The Nudists

What is life like in California's first nudist colony? Mignon Beck, San Francisco girl who told of her initial visit to the nudist colony now flourishing in Shasta county, here takes up the story of her stay in camp in the second of a series of three articles.—The Editor.

By MIGNON BECK

ROUND MOUNTAIN, Shasta Co., August 9. The sun shining in my face and the chirping of birds awakened me from a sound sleep. It was early, but already nude figures were jumping from hillside beds and making their way towards the cabins.

Without dressing, I followed hastily to find 13 men, seven women and three children standing in three rows awaiting their morning exercises. They were lined up without regard to height and made a queer picture, with tints of skin ranging from a light pink to a bright coral and various shades of beige and brown.

Exercising vigorously for 10 minutes, we then ran down to the creek and plunged into the icy waters for a dip.

Meets U. S. Coed

At the pool I met a young attractive girl. She turned out to be a University of California student. "My family thinks I'm in a conventional summer resort," she said. "They'd have a fit if they thought I'd gone nudist."

A brisk run back to camp and we found breakfast ready to be served on tables on the ground in the largest log cabin. Breakfast consisted of fruit, sardoughn hot-cakes, coffee and toast.

Figures Improve

Following the repast, some of the colonizers settled down to read or write letters. With the coed I started out to leisurely inspect the 20 acres owned by the colony.

Returning to camp we found five of the inhabitants going through various health exercises under Capt. T. I remarked that, as a whole, figures were better than I expected to find them. My companion laughed.

"Naturally they are," she said.

Above, three members of the Shasta colony ready for a hike. Lower, Mignon Beck, Right, cleaning up the nature camp.

Haven't you become more conscious of your own physical defects and aren't you striving to eliminate them? It's the same with everyone here."

We watched Jack Austin, owner of the camp, vigorously massage a 25-year-old stenographer.

"This'll help," he said disinterestedly, "but unless you get out and hike—exercise it off, all the massage in the world won't remove those hips."

A bang of saucers, signalled lunch—cold meats, vegetable salad and fruit. Some of the plates omitted meats because of individual diets ordered by Charlotte Austin, registered nurse and dietitian.

After a rest period five of us mind me using his name in this story. He studied it over:

Not Ashamed

"I'm not ashamed of this or I wouldn't be here," he said finally, "but most people think differently than we do."

That was the attitude in a nutshell of most of the nudists. While not ashamed of going nude they do not want personal acquaintances and business friends, who might feel differently on the subject, to know.

In her third and last article Miss Beck gives the nudist viewpoint and reasons for joining the colony.)

MORE LIQUOR FINES

OROVILLE, Aug. 9.—R. E. Philips was fined $100 yesterday in police court for possession of liquor. Philips pleaded guilty to the charges following his arrest by patrolmen at his home on Myers street. The arrest came after the sale of a quart of gin to an operative.

ARMY SENT TO CAPITAL TO AWAIT U. S. ACTION

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 9.—UP—President Roosevelt conferred with Cuban Ambassador Cintas tonight seeking early settlement of the troubled Cuban political situation.

At the end of the conference, the Cuban envoy immediately dispatched a message to his government, presumably embodying Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions.

Roosevelt Statement

A statement issued by the summer White House at the conclusion of the conversation was as follows:

"The president and Ambassador Cintas discussed the Cuban situation, especially its economic aspects."

"They felt that the problems of starvation and depression are of such immediate importance that every political problem should be put in the most patriotic spirit in order to improve conditions at the earliest possible moment."

"The ambassador is communicative with his government."

Cintas arrived at Hyde Park from New York City by motor and went into session with Mr. Roosevelt almost immediately.

Beyond the brief statement, no inkling was given as to the nature of the envoy's report to the government of President Machado, now seriously threatened by opposing political factions and by a general strike that has paralyzed the communication system and industries of the island.

Before Ambassador Cintas drove up to the gates of the Summer White House Mr. Roosevelt was busily engaged in studying the reports brought to him a few hours earlier by a state department messenger.

These documents comprised the official report of Ambassador Sumner Welles in Havana, who has been exerting every possible influence to bring about a cessation of the troubles.

A swift navy plane brought the messenger to Hyde Park with the dispatches.

WAR EFFECTIVE ON HEADLIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 9.—Glamorous and illegal headlights, the plague of California highways, caused the issuance of citations of "tickets" to 73,980 drivers during the first six months of 1933. The Department of Motor Vehicles revealed today.

The tickets, which were good either for a trip to jail or to a light adjusting station, at the option of the driver, were handed out by members of the California Highway Patrol as part of their daily routine duties.

The department's figures show headlight enforcement citations for the period increased 37 percent over the same period of 1932 and increased 146 percent over the like period of 1931.

During the last two years the patrol has adhered to a policy of emphasizing headlight control although few sporadic raids or "drives" have been indulged in.

Rock Explains

Commenting upon the situation Theodore J. Roche, director of the department said:

"The real reason for so many defective lights is the lack of interest of the motorist in his own equipment."

"Strangely enough, he will have his car overhauled completely but will pay no attention to his lights. Our records show the average motorist checks his tires and battery once every two or three weeks but has his lights adjusted only when compelled to."

"We expect to go on with headlight enforcement work. But the patrol is limited in numbers. The motorist must be made to feel his responsibility before any marked improvement will be obtained."

Officer Sees Auto Thieves Steal Car

OROVILLE, Aug. 9.—While a patrolman on the Oroville police force watched them, two thieves stole an automobile from its parking place near the courthouse yesterday. The car was found later by the owner, Raymond Dickinson, with the parts stripped off.

The patrolman saw the driver of one automobile pushing another automobile ahead of it through a stop sign. The officer thought it was the owner attempting to take his stalled car to a garage.

MOTOR FEES TO BE GIVEN TO COUNTIES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 9.—The Department of Motor Vehicles today announced the apportionment of $4,758,944 in motor registration fees to be divided equally between the Division of Highways and the various counties of the state for road buildings purposes.

The counties will receive a total of $2,379,472, the share of each being based on the number of vehicles registered during the first six months of 1933. The Division of Highways will receive a similar sum.

Contra Costa with 24,583 vehicles received $30,318.15. The apportionment is based on a net total of fee-paid registrations for the period of 1,929,515 vehicles divided as follows:

Automobiles, 1,766,367; solid trucks, 5,015; pneumatic trucks, 93,032; motorcycles, 7,190; solid trailers, 5,533; pneumatic trailers, 52,378.

Registrar Russell Bevans announced that while the total registrations was somewhat under that of the first six months of 1932, a sharp increase within the last four months gives promise that the total for the entire year will exceed that of last year.

Bevans said good gains were made in April, May, June and July.

Los Angeles County with 789,691 vehicles received $973,844 the lion's share of the money.

San Francisco received $172,252, the second largest share.

Japan Comments On U. S. Plan To Repeal Ruling On Exclusion

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following official statement is the first given out by the Japanese foreign office since renewal of talk about repeal of the Japanese exclusion clause in the United States immigration law.

By Frederick P. Whiteing
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Aug. 9.—UP—Satisfaction at renewed efforts in the United States to bring about repeal of the Japanese exclusion clause in the American immigration law was officially expressed by the imperial government in an exclusive statement to the United Press.

The statement was prepared by Mamoru Shigemitsu, vice minister for foreign affairs, on behalf of foreign minister Count Yasuya Uchida.

"It is most welcome news that a campaign has been inaugurated in the United States for the admission of Japanese immigrants under the quota system, on equal footing with immigrants from other countries, and is receiving the support of an increasing number of Americans," the statement said.

"Once this problem of immigration is amicably disposed of and Japan's legitimate stand in the Far East is fully appreciated in the United States, there will be nothing left that may possibly disturb the pacific and friendly relations between Japan and America which Japan is determined to cultivate to the utmost."

Japanese Boy Imitates Aimee By Long Cross - Country Swim

The others began to fish and Sahiyogi decided to go swimming instead. A few hours later the three anglers returned to find some of the boy's clothing on the sands and the boy missing.

As he was said to be subject to cramps, the conclusion was reached that he had drowned. Extensive dragging of the shore waters failed to reveal his body—and no wonder. The general belief, now, is that the boy, desiring ardently to see the World's Fair, had brought along his best clothes and some money in the mysterious bundle. He had apparently changed garments, discarded the old ones and hopped a freight train in the Santa Fe tunnel.

Clothing Missing
His parents later discovered the absence of certain articles of clothing from his home, 1201 Lincoln avenue, Alameda.

Now young Sahiyogi has lost his interest in the fair, according to his letter. He is hungry and ragged and wants to "come home."

The theory of the freight train ride is practical. How much more interesting to think that he might have made the trip in company with Dick the Dope from Denver.
